El tamal guatemalteco tradicional lleva una masa suave de maíz, recado de tomate y achiote, y carne de cerdo o pollo. Se envuelve en hojas de plátano y se cocina al vapor.

www.generacionesenaccion.org

Para unos 12–15 tamales:

Para la masa:
2 libras de masa de maíz o harina de maíz para tamal
1 taza de manteca de cerdo
4–5 tazas de agua o caldo de pollo
1 cucharadita de sal
1 cucharadita de achiote

Para el recado:
8 tomates maduros
2 tomatillos
1 chile pimiento rojo
1 chile guaque seco
1 chile pasa seco
1 cebolla
2 dientes de ajo
2 cucharadas de pepitoria
1 cucharada de ajonjolí
1 tortilla de maíz tostada
1 pizca de canela
Sal al gusto

Para el relleno:
1½–2 libras de carne de cerdo o pollo, en trozos
Aceitunas
Pasas
Tiras de chile pimiento

Para envolver:
Hojas de plátano
Cibaque o hilo de cocina

Preparación

Prepare el recado: ase los tomates, tomatillos, chile pimiento, cebolla y ajo. Tueste ligeramente los chiles secos, la pepitoria y el ajonjolí. Licúe todo junto con la tortilla tostada, canela y un poco de agua. Cocine el recado unos 15–20 minutos y sazone con sal.

Prepare la masa: caliente el agua o caldo y agregue poco a poco la masa. Añada la manteca, achiote y sal. Cocine a fuego medio, moviendo constantemente, hasta que quede suave y espesa. Debe poder extenderse fácilmente.

Prepare la carne: puede cocinarla previamente unos minutos con sal y un poco del recado.

Arme los tamales: coloque una hoja de plátano, ponga una porción de masa en el centro y agregue recado, carne, aceituna, pasas y chile pimiento.

Envuelva y amarre bien cada tamal.

Cocine al vapor: coloque hojas de plátano en el fondo de una olla, acomode los tamales y agregue agua sin cubrirlos. Tape y cocine aproximadamente 1½–2 horas, revisando que la olla no se quede sin agua.

Un secreto guatemalteco: la manteca bien batida y un buen recado son los que ayudan a que el tamal quede suave, sabroso y con ese sabor tradicional.

GUATEMALAN TAMALE

The traditional Guatemalan tamale features a smooth corn masa, a sauce (recado) made from tomatoes and achiote, and pork or chicken. It is wrapped in banana leaves and steamed.

www.generacionesenaccion.org

Makes about 12–15 tamales:

For the masa:
2 lbs corn masa or corn flour for tamales
1 cup lard
4–5 cups water or chicken broth
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon achiote
For the recado (sauce):
8 ripe tomatoes
2 tomatillos
1 red bell pepper
1 dried guaque chili
1 dried pasa chili
1 onion
2 cloves garlic
2 tablespoons pumpkin seeds (pepitoria)
1 tablespoon sesame seeds
1 toasted corn tortilla
1 pinch cinnamon
Salt to taste

For the filling:
1½–2 lbs pork or chicken, cut into pieces
Olives
Raisins
Strips of bell pepper
For wrapping:
Banana leaves
Cibaque (natural fiber ties) or kitchen twine

Preparation

Prepare the meat: you can pre-cook it for a few minutes with salt and a little of the recado. Assemble the tamales: lay out a banana leaf, place a portion of masa in the center, and add the recado (sauce), meat, an olive, raisins, and a strip of bell pepper.

Prepare the recado: roast the tomatoes, tomatillos, bell pepper, onion, and garlic. Lightly toast the dried chilies, pumpkin seeds, and sesame seeds. Blend everything together with the toasted tortilla, cinnamon, and a little water. Cook the recado for about 15–20 minutes and season with salt.

Prepare the masa: heat the water or broth and gradually add the masa. Add the lard, achiote, and salt. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until smooth and thick. It should be easy to spread.

Wrap and tie each tamal securely.

Steam: line the bottom of a pot with banana leaves, arrange the tamales, and add water (without covering them). Cover and cook for approximately 1½–2 hours, making sure the pot does not run dry.

*A Guatemalan secret: well-beaten lard and a high-quality recado are what ensure the tamal turns out tender, flavorful, and authentic-tasting.*

Puebla-style Red Pipián

Serves 6

Puebla-style recipes vary from family to family; this version combines pumpkin seeds, sesame seeds, and dried chiles.

Ingredients

- 12 pieces of chicken
- 1 cup shelled, unsalted pumpkin seeds (pepitas)
- ½ cup sesame seeds
- 10 guajillo chiles
- 2 pasilla chiles
- 2 ripe tomatoes
- ¼ onion
- 5 cloves of garlic
- 1 corn tortilla
- A pinch of cumin
- 2 whole cloves
- 1 small piece of cinnamon stick
- 4–5 cups chicken broth
- 2 tablespoons lard or oil
- Salt to taste

Preparation

1. Cook the chicken in water with onion, garlic, and salt until fully cooked. Reserve the broth.
2. Clean the chiles: remove stems, seeds, and veins. Toast them for a few seconds on each side —without burning them—and soak in hot water for 15 minutes.
3. Toast the pumpkin seeds and sesame seeds separately, stirring constantly. Remove them as soon as they begin to brown.
4. Roast the tomatoes, onion, and garlic. Also toast the tortilla until golden brown.
5. Blend the drained chiles with the tomatoes, onion, garlic, and one cup of broth until a thick sauce forms.
6. Grind the seeds together with the tortilla, cumin, cloves, cinnamon, and another cup of broth. The mixture should be smooth.
7. Heat the lard or oil in a large pot or cazuela. Add the chile sauce and cook for 5 minutes. Stir in the seed mixture and cook over low heat for 15–20 minutes, stirring frequently to prevent sticking. Add more broth as needed.
8. Add the chicken, adjust the salt, and cook for another 10 minutes over low heat.

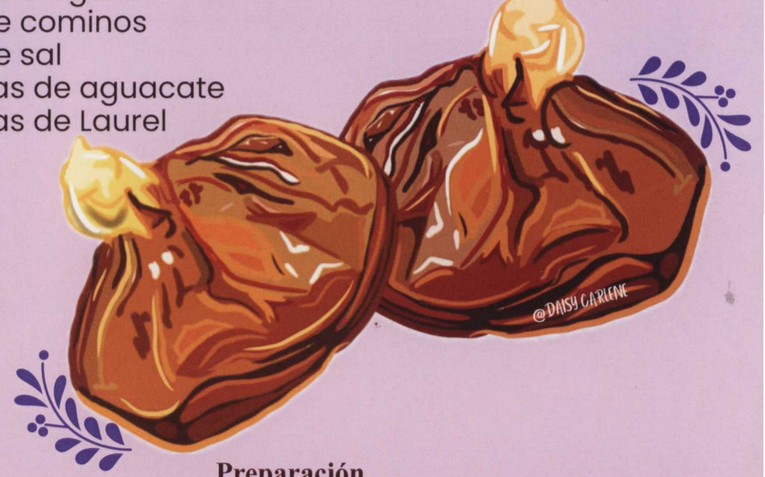

Serve with rice and warm tortillas. The pipián should be thick, yet smooth enough to coat the chicken.

- 6 sliced hard-boiled eggs
- ½ pound of olives
- ½ pound of pickled onions
- 2 cans of asparagus
- 4 chamborote peppers
- ½ pound of hard cheese

PREPARATION

VEGETABLES

Wash the vegetables very well Vegetables. Dice the carrots, cut the cauliflower into small florets, and julienne the green beans. Cook the vegetables with garlic powder, onion salt, and a pinch of salt, ensuring they remain soft but firm.

Shred the cabbage and blanch it in hot, salted water. Once everything is cool, combine the cabbage, onions, and other vegetables in a large bowl. Reserve the cooking liquid.

MEATS AND SAUSAGES

Cook the chicken, shred it, and reserve the broth. Cook the chorizo, longaniza, and butifarra sausages; once cooled, slice them. Cut the ham and sausages into strips or slices.

Cook the beef with onion, tomato, garlic powder, thyme, and bay leaf until tender. Shred the beef and reserve the broth. Cook the salted tongue until tender and cut it into portions.

BROTH

Combine the cooking liquids from the meats and vegetables in a pot. Add bay leaf and thyme and simmer gently to concentrate the flavors.

Strain the broth and let it cool before adding the vinegar. Gradually add the vinegar, olive oil, and mustard. Mix, taste, and adjust with salt, pepper, or more vinegar if needed.

The broth should be fresh, aromatic, and slightly acidic, without the vinegar overpowering the other flavors.

ASSEMBLY

Place the cooked vegetables in a large bowl. Gradually add the broth and mix carefully. Add some of the meats, sausages, pearl onions, capers, and other accompaniments.

Let the cold cuts rest in the refrigerator so all the ingredients absorb the flavor of the broth.

PLATING

Place a bed of lettuce on a plate, serve a generous portion of cold cuts, and garnish with chicken, shredded beef, sausages, salted tongue, eggs, radishes, olives, pickled onions, asparagus, chili peppers, pacayas (a type of palm), and hard cheese.

PARA LA GUARNICIÓN
- 2 lechugas
- 2 latas de pimientos rojos asados
- 25 rábanos pequeños
- 6 huevos duros en rodajas
- ½ libra de aceitunas
- ½ libra de cebollitas encurtidas
- 2 latas de espárragos
- 4 chiles chamborote
- ½ libra de queso duro

PREPARACIÓN

VERDURAS
Lava muy bien las verduras. Corta las zanahorias en cubitos, la coliflor en arbolitos pequeños y las ejotes (judías verdes) en juliana. Cocina las verduras con ajo en polvo, sal de cebolla y una pizca de sal, asegurándote de que queden tiernas pero firmes.
Pica el repollo (col) y blanquéalo en agua caliente con sal. Una vez que todo esté frío, mezcla el repollo, las cebollas y el resto de las verduras en un tazón grande. Reserva el líquido de la cocción.

CARNES Y EMBUTIDOS
Cocina el pollo, desmenúzalo y reserva el caldo. Cocina el chorizo, la longaniza y la butifarra; una vez fríos, córtalos en rodajas. Corta el jamón y los embutidos en tiras o rodajas.
Cocina la carne de res con cebolla, tomate, ajo en polvo, tomillo y hoja de laurel hasta que esté tierna. Desmenúzala y reserva el caldo. Cocina la lengua salada hasta que esté tierna y córtala en porciones.

CALDO
Combina los líquidos de la cocción de las carnes y las verduras en una olla. Añade hoja de laurel y tomillo, y cocina a fuego lento para concentrar los sabores.
Cuela el caldo y deja que se enfríe antes de añadir el vinagre. Incorpora gradualmente el vinagre, el aceite de oliva y la mostaza. Mezcla, prueba y ajusta con sal, pimienta o más vinagre si es necesario.
El caldo debe quedar fresco, aromático y ligeramente ácido, sin que el vinagre opaque los demás sabores.

ENSAMBLAJE
Coloca las verduras cocidas en un tazón grande. Añade el caldo poco a poco y mezcla con cuidado. Incorpora parte de las carnes, los embutidos, las cebollitas perla, las alcaparras y el resto de los acompañamientos.

Deja reposar la preparación en el refrigerador para que todos los ingredientes absorban el sabor del caldo.

EMPLATADO
Coloca una cama de lechuga en un plato, sirve una porción generosa de la mezcla y decora con pollo, carne de res desmenuzada, embutidos, lengua salada, huevos, rábanos, aceitunas, cebollas encurtidas, espárragos, chiles, pacayas y queso duro.
